THAI WEDDINGS:

Thai wedding ceremonies are performed by nine Buddhist monks and begin with the monks chanting traditional prayers. This is followed by the monks blessing the bride and the groom by linking their heads with joined loops of "sai mongkon". This ritual is done to show that the bride and groom keep their individual identities, but their destinies are now linked. After this, the head monk pours blessed water over the heads of the bride and groom and the water is collected in a bowl of ornately arranged flowers. The guests of the bride and the groom also bless the couple at the water blessing altar.

The Thai Wedding Package covers all decorations and set-up at your selected venue including flowers, incense and candles, sitting area for monks, water blessing altar and a decorative entrance arch.

INDIAN WEDDINGS:

Amari Hua Hin excitedly welcomes Indian weddings. With our past experience and professionalism we can make your dream wedding a reality. Our experienced team will work with your preferred Indian wedding planner, assisting you with your wedding plans and ensuring that the event will be carried out precisely as you wish.

Rituals and Customs:

As you know tradition, culture, symbolism and religion play a huge part of marriage ceremonies. It is not only about the bride and groom, but it also means involving family, friends and the whole community. Therefore in anticipation of the wedding season, we now offer a myriad of Indian wedding customs and rituals.

The Indian marriage ceremony consists of various stages of rituals and customs that must be done before the main wedding ceremony. The pre-wedding ceremony is full of entertainment and amusement for both families of the future bride and groom.

Catering:

Indian cuisine is characterised by its use of various spices, herbs and other vegetables. The process of cooking is complicated and the food is very significant for the ceremony. Professional Indian Chefs must do the preparations of food to provide the perfect menu and tastes from different parts of India. All guests have the opportunity to try the entire menu before the wedding day and meet the entire catering team to ensure that all expectations are exceeded.
